POPULATION OF INCORPORATED PLACES IN 1900.

This bulletin, prepared under the direction of Mr. WILLIAM C. HUNT, chief statistician for population, relates to incorporated cities, towns, villages, and boroughs, and gives the population, according to the returns of the Twelfth Census of the United States, of all such places, so far as it has been returned by the census enumerators separate from the population of the townships, precincts, districts, etc., of which they form a part.

In accordance with the provisions of section 12 of the census act, approved March 3, 1899, by which a separate enumeration of all incorporated places was required, every effort was made by this office to insure a complete return of the population of each incorporated city, town, village, and borough within the United States, and it is believed that the list given in table 8 of this bulletin, comprising, in all, 10,602 places, includes practically every incorporated place in the several states and territories comprehended by the Federal census taken as of June 1, 1900.

At the census of 1890, in presenting the population of states and territories by minor civil divisions (report on population, part 1, page 47), an attempt was made to state separately the population of all places, incorporated and unincorporated, having a certain number of inhabitants, the limit of population ranging higher or lower according to the conditions of settlement in the various sections of the country; in other words, an arbitrary limit of population was fixed for each state and territory, being as low as 200 in some cases, and a separate statement was made for every place, whether incorporated or not, having upwards of the amount of population fixed upon for the state or territory in which it was situated, but ignoring all places having a less amount of population, so far as this could be determined from the returns of the census enumerators. No complete summary of the population of these incorporated and unincorporated places is given in the report on population for 1890, but a table (part 1, page 378) is presented giving the population of places having 1,000 inhabitants or more, including towns of like population in the New England states, with the exception of Connecticut, where a slightly different plan was pursued. There were in 1890, including the New England towns, 3,715 such places, and a brief analysis of the aggregate population represented by these places was presented in census bulletin 165, published February 19, 1892. In order that the statements contained in said bulletin for 1890 may be made comparable, even approximately, with similar results for 1900, it is necessary to exclude New England towns and, as far as possible, all unincorporated places in 1890, inasmuch as the tables of population comprehended by this bulletin for 1900 relate to incorporated places only, no attempt having been made in the present census to secure a separate enumeration of unincorporated places. For the purposes of this comparison, therefore, after excluding the New England towns, it has been assumed, for want of more definite information, that if a place for which the population was given separately in 1890 is included in the list of incorporated places returned in 1900 it was similarly incorporated in 1890, the inclusion under this plan of certain places not in reality incorporated offsetting in great measure the omission of places which were in fact incorporated at the time of the census enumeration in 1890, but for which the population was not separately returned by the census enumerators. By this plan the number of places having a population of 1,000 or more in 1890 is reduced to 2,835, representing, approximately, that number of incorporated places, and if by the same process the number of incorporated places having under 1,000 inhabitants in 1890 is determined, it is found that there were, approximately, 4,748 incorporated places having a population of less than 1,000 in 1890, making a total of 7,578 incorporated places in 1890 as against 10,602 such places in 1900. The number of incorporated places at the two censuses are classified by size in table 1, that is, according to the respective amounts of population represented by them.

If cities with a population of 100,000 or more are taken to represent the large cities of the country, there are, as shown by table 1, 38 such cities in 1900 as compared with 28 in 1890. Of the 38 large cities in 1900, 3 contain upwards of a million inhabitants, the same as in 1890, while for cities having between 500,000 and 1,000,000 inhabitants those in 1900 number 3 as against 1 only in 1890. There are no cities in 1900 containing between 400,000 and 500,000 inhabitants, but at the census of 1890 there were 3 cities of this class. On the other hand, there are 5 cities in 1900 with a population of between 300,000 and 400,000, but in 1890 there were no cities coming between these limits of population. The cities having between 200,000 and 300,000 inhabitants number 8 in 1900 as against 9 in 1890, while for cities of from 100,000 to 200,000 inhabitants there are 19 in 1900 as compared with 12 in 1890. The cities having 100,000 inhabitants or more in 1890 and 1900 are presented in detail in table 2, arranged according to their population at each census.

New York, Chicago, and Philadelphia each has more than a million inhabitants in 1900, the same as in 1890, but since the latter census the area and population of New York city have been increased greatly, and with its 3,437,202 inhabitants it now represents the second largest city in the world, London alone exceeding it in population. The city of Brooklyn, which had a population of 806,343 in 1890, has become since 1890 a part of New York city and no longer exists as a separate municipality.<sup>1</sup> St. Louis, Boston, and Baltimore, each of which had in 1890 upwards of 400,000 inhabitants, have now passed the half-million mark, and with the first three cities named constitute the six great cities of the country.

Referring again to table 1, it is seen that somewhat more than three-fifths of all the incorporated places at each of the two censuses named constitute places having less than 1,000 inhabitants; that is to say, of places of 500 and under 1,000 inhabitants there are 2,501 in 1900 and 1,909 in 1890, and of places of under 500 inhabitants there are 4,318 in 1900 and 2,834 in 1890, representing, when combined, 6,819 out of a total of 10,602 places in 1900 and 4,743 out of a total of 7,578 in 1890.

The number of incorporated places in 1890 and 1900 are presented in detail for certain classified sizes by states and territories in table 3.

There are no incorporated places in Alaska, and no mention of that territory is made, therefore, in table 3.

In Indian Territory 90 towns, incorporated under the act of June 28, 1898, have been separately enumerated in 1900 and are numbered among the incorporated places at the present census. The population of Indian Territory was taken in 1890, apart from the general enumeration, under a special provision of the census act, but there were no incorporated places in Indian Territory at that census.

The present census of the Hawaiian Islands is the first census taken under the auspices of the United States, the islands not having been annexed until August 12, 1898, under an act of Congress approved July 7, 1898, but a census has been taken under the direction of the Hawaiian Government at six-year intervals from 1866 to 1896, inclusive, and the figures derived from the census taken as of December 28, 1890, are used for purposes of comparison in this bulletin. Honolulu city, so-called, is coextensive with Honolulu district, but is not in reality incorporated. It is to all intents and purposes a municipality, however, and is included, therefore, in table 3 as one of the incorporated places in 1890 and 1900.

The 10,602 incorporated places in 1900 contain, in the aggregate, 35,849,516 inhabitants, as compared with a total of 26,079,828 persons living in incorporated places in 1890. These figures are presented in table 4, in detail, by states and territories arranged geographically, together with the percentage of the total population of the several states and territories living in incorporated places at each of the two censuses named.

The combined population of the 10,602 incorporated places in 1900 constitutes very nearly one-half (47.1 per cent) of the entire population comprehended by the present Federal census, exclusive of the population of Alaska and of persons in the military and naval service of the United States stationed abroad, representing an aggregate population of 76,148,576. In equivalent areas, the whole number of persons living in the 7,578 incorporated places at the census of 1890 constituted a little more than two-fifths (41.4 per cent) of the total population at that census, representing, in the aggregate, 63,037,704 persons.

Aside from the District of Columbia, which is considered for census purposes to be coextensive with the city of Washington, New York has the largest percentage of its population living in incorporated places; that is to say, out of a total population in 1900 of 7,268,894 in that state 5,642,999, or 77.6 per cent, live in incorporated places, as compared with 69.4 per cent in 1890. More than three-fifths of the population of incorporated places in New York in 1900 is found in the city of New York, which alone contains 3,437,202 inhabitants and constitutes 47.3 per cent of the present population of that state. New Jersey has very nearly the same proportion (76.2 per cent) of its population in 1900 living in incorporated places as in New York state, equivalent in these two states to more than three-fourths of their entire population. In six other states, namely, Massachusetts, Illinois, Rhode Island, Pennsylvania, Colorado, and Connecticut, from three-fifths to somewhat more than two-thirds of the total population live in incorporated places, while in seven states, namely, Delaware, Utah, California, Ohio, Maryland, Washington, and Michigan, there is between 50 and 60 per cent of the population in 1900 living in incorporated places.

Mississippi has the smallest percentage of population living in incorporated places in 1900, being but 14.7 per cent, and is closely followed by New Mexico with 15.2 per cent. Seven other states and territories have less than one-fifth of their total population in incorporated places, namely, Arkansas, 17 per cent; Oklahoma, 17.1 per cent; Alabama, 17.7 per cent; North Carolina, 17.9 per cent; Indian Territory, 19.1 per cent; South Carolina, 19.5 per cent; and Tennessee, 19.8 per cent.

Analyzing the results for the United States according to the proportion of the entire population found in incorporated places of various sizes, it appears that the 161 cities having 25,000 inhabitants or more in 1900 contain an aggregate of 19,757,618 persons, and that this number of persons constitutes 25.9 per cent of the total population considered. This population does not agree with the population given in census bulletin 11, issued October 25, 1900, on account of the addition of two cities, namely, Joplin, Mo., and Honolulu, Hawaii, and a correction in the population of Chattanooga, Tenn. In 1890 there were 124 cities which had a population of 25,000 or more, but of these cities Brooklyn and Long Island City now form a part of New York city, showing a net gain of 89 cities in 1900 as compared with 1890. These 124 cities in 1890 had a combined population of 13,989,568, or 22.2 per cent of the total population considered at that census.

Incorporated places having between 8,000 and 25,000 inhabitants in 1900 number 356 and comprise, in the aggregate, a population of 4,946,091, equivalent to 6.5 per cent of the entire population. Places of similar character and size in 1890 numbered 292 and contained 3,947,233 persons, or 6.3 per cent of the total population.

There are 532 incorporated places in 1900 with a population of more than 4,000 but less than 8,000, comprising a total of 2,937,827, or 3.9 per cent of the whole population, as against 358 such places in 1890 with a combined population of 1,970,752 and constituting 3.1 per cent of the total population.

The 604 incorporated places returned in 1900 with a population ranging from 2,500 to 4,000 contain, in all, 1,896,705 persons and represent 2.5 per cent of the total population, as compared with a total of 1,473,999 persons living in 470 incorporated places of similar size in 1890, representing 2.3 per cent of the entire population ten years ago.

The incorporated places containing between 1,000 and 2,500 inhabitants in 1900 number 2,130 and represent a combined total of 3,804,700 persons, constituting 4.3 per cent of the country's present population, while those incorporated places having under 1,000 inhabitants in 1900 number 6,819 and contain 3,007,075 persons, or 4 per cent of the total population. There were in 1890 a total of 1,591 incorporated places with a population of more than 1,000 but less than 2,500, representing 2,489,194 persons in all and constituting 4 per cent of the total population, while the incorporated places having a population of less than 1,000 numbered 4,743, with a combined population of 2,209,082, or 3.5 per cent of the total population in 1890.

These results just presented for the United States as a whole are summarized in table 5.

If the results as shown in table 5 are still further summarized, it appears that the incorporated places containing 8,000 inhabitants or more in 1900 are 517 in number, representing an aggregate of 24,703,709 persons, and constituting not quite one-third (32.4 per cent) of all the persons in the United States. In 1890 there were 17,936,801 persons living in 416 incorporated places of similar size and they constituted not quite three-tenths (28.5 per cent) of the entire population at that census. Considering in the same way all incorporated places having upwards of 4,000 inhabitants, it appears that there are 1,049 such places in 1900 having a combined population of 27,641,036 and representing more than seven-twentieths (36.3 per cent) of the whole population. There were 774 places with 4,000 inhabitants or more in 1890 containing an aggregate population of 19,907,553 and constituting somewhat more than three-tenths (31.6 per cent) of the total population.

These statements of population are limited to incorporated places having upwards of 4,000 and 8,000 inhabitants, respectively, and do not agree with the statements contained in census bulletin 70, relating to "Urban population in 1900," in which the population of certain towns in the New England states containing no incorporated places is used, in order that the urban population of the New England states may be made more nearly comparable with that for other sections of the country, as fully explained in said bulletin.

While the whole body of population found in incorporated places, without limit as to the amount of population, may be said to be living more or less under urban conditions, still it has been maintained in previous censuses that the population of all incorporations and New England towns having 8,000 inhabitants or more should be taken, on the whole, as representing that increment of the population that is living under truly urban conditions. This limit of population is a purely arbitrary one, however, and is considered generally to be too high, so that at the present census the limit has been lowered so as to comprise all incorporations and New England towns containing upwards of 4,000 inhabitants.

In order to make the figures presented in this bulletin comparable with those given in bulletin 70, it is necessary to add the population of 109 towns in New England having 4,000 inhabitants or more in 1900, but containing no incorporated city, village, or borough. The aggregate population represented by these 109 New England towns is 770,662, which, added to the population of incorporated places of similar size (27,641,036), gives a combined population of 28,411,698, for all places of upwards of 4,000 inhabitants in 1900; that is, 37.3 per cent of the population may be considered as living at present under truly urban conditions. Increasing the figures for 1890 on a similar basis, the population of incorporated places of 4,000 inhabitants or more (19,907,553) is raised to 20,768,881, by the addition of 861,328 persons living in 125 New England towns, equivalent to 32.9 per cent of the total population in 1890, and representing the proportion, therefore, living under urban conditions.

The number and population of incorporated places in the several states and territories in 1890 and 1900 are classified according to certain ranges of population in table 6, the states and territories being arranged geographically as in table 4.

From this table it appears that the 161 places having upwards of 25,000 inhabitants in 1900 contain 55.1 per cent of the entire population of incorporated places, although they constitute but 1.5 per cent of the whole number of such places. At the census of 1890 the 124 cities with a population of 25,000 or more constituted 1.6 per cent of all the incorporated places and contained 53.6 per cent of the total population living in incorporated places.

Places having less than 1,000 persons, on the other hand, constitute very nearly two-thirds (64.8 per cent) of all the incorporated places in 1900, but contain considerably less than a tenth (8.4 per cent) of the entire population resident therein. Similar results for 1890 do not show material differences, although the percentage of such places in 1890 (62.6 per cent) is slightly smaller than that for 1900.

Considering the results shown in table 7 for the several geographical divisions of the country, the very much smaller proportion of places under 1,000 in the North Atlantic division as compared with the other divisions is noticeable, the percentages for 1900 being 45.2 for the North Atlantic division as opposed to 74.6 for the South Atlantic division, 67.5 for the North Central division, 67 for the South Central division, and 58.5 for the Western division. There is a corresponding difference in the amount of population represented by such places in the several divisions, being 2.7 per cent for the North Atlantic division as compared with 13.8, 12.2, 13.3, and 8.6 for each of the other four divisions, respectively, in the order as first named. Practically seven-tenths, on the other hand, of all the persons living in incorporated places in the North Atlantic division in 1900 are found in cities of 25,000 and upwards, contrasted with 43.8 per cent living under similar conditions in the South Atlantic division, 45.6 per cent in the North Central division, 38.7 per cent in the South Central division, and 49.9 per cent in the Western division.

The 10,602 incorporated cities, towns, villages, and boroughs for which the population is separately returned in 1900, are presented in detail by states and territories in table 8.

TABLE 8.—POPULATION OF INCORPORATED CITIES, TOWNS, VILLAGES, AND BOROUGHS IN 1900, WITH POPULATION FOR 1890.

[This table gives the population of all incorporated places in the United States, so far as they have been returned by the census enumerators separate from the population of the townships, precincts, districts, etc., of which they form a part. There are no incorporated places in Alaska.]

The following named states and territories in 1900 do not contain any city with a population of 25,000 or more: Arizona, Idaho, Indian Territory, Mississippi, Nevada, New Mexico, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Vermont, and Wyoming.

The population of each of the five boroughs of the city of New York in 1900 is given on page 56 in detail by wards or assembly districts, but for a proper understanding of the changes which have taken place in its organization and population since 1890 the following explanation seems necessary:

The city of New York, as constituted prior to the act of consolidation which became effective January 1, 1898, had a population in 1890 of 1,515,301 as compared with a population in 1900 of 3,437,202, showing an apparent increase of 1,921,901, or 126.8 per cent.

In 1890 the city comprised all of what is now the borough of Manhattan and the greater part of what is now the borough of Bronx, but under the act of consolidation above referred to, Kings county, Richmond county, the larger part of Queens county, and a small part of Westchester county became a part of the city.

Manhattan borough comprises all that part of the old city of New York lying to the south of the Harlem river, this area being known formerly as Manhattan Island.

Bronx borough was formed from that part of the old city of New York lying to the north of the Harlem river and the small part of Westchester county annexed under the act of consolidation. All of this area was at one time a part of Westchester county, but in 1873 the towns of Morrisania, West Farms, and Kings Bridge were annexed to New York, and under the act which took effect January 1, 1898, all of the town of Westchester and parts of the towns of Eastchester and Pelham became a part of the city.

It is impossible to state definitely the population in 1890 of that part of the town of Hempstead, Queens county, which became a part of Queens borough, and of the parts of the towns of Eastchester and Pelham, Westchester county, which became a part of Bronx borough, but in table 10 is shown the estimated population for the city of New York, as now constituted, and in detail for each borough of the city, from 1790 to 1900:

Under an act of the legislature the towns of Flatbush, Flatlands, Gravesend, and New Utrecht were absorbed by the city of Brooklyn in 1894, the town of Flatbush becoming the twenty-ninth ward, the town of New Utrecht the thirtieth ward, the town of Gravesend the thirty-first ward, and the town of Flatlands the thirty-second ward of the city. The city thus became coextensive with Kings county, and on January 1, 1898, the city of Brooklyn became the borough of Brooklyn, one of the five boroughs of what is now the city of New York.

Queens borough was organized at the same time from what was Long Island City, the towns of Flushing, Jamaica, and Newtown, and a small portion of the town of Hempstead, all of which were civil divisions of Queens county. The remaining towns of the county, Oyster Bay and North Hempstead, together with the greater part of the town of Hempstead, were taken to form the new county of Nassau. The first ward of Queens borough comprises what was formerly Long Island City, the second ward what was formerly Newtown town, the third ward what was formerly Flushing town, the fourth ward what was formerly Jamaica town, and the fifth ward that part of the town of Hempstead now within the limits of the borough of Queens.

The preceding table shows that the area comprised within the present limits of the city of New York had an estimated population of 49,401 in 1790, which had grown to 696,115 in 1850, representing an increase of 646,714, or 1,309.1 per cent. The population of the present city of New York had grown to 2,507,414 in 1890, or an increase since 1850 of 1,811,299, or 260.2 per cent. Since 1890 there has been an increase of 929,788, or 37.1 per cent, the population in 1900 being 3,437,202.
